WORK HELD BACK

PROGRESS IN LEGISLATION RETARDED BY CONTEST.

JOINT SESSION TO DECIDE

Republicans Are Now Sorry They Raised Question of Jurisdiction of the Supreme Court.

The Bradbury-Wightman contest for railroad and warehouse commissioner may delay the work of the legislature for some time, it seems. The Republicans raised the question of the jurisdiction of the supreme court and are now sorry for doing it.

The joint session of the legislature today must decide whether some form of compromise over the office of railroad commissioner will be accepted or whether the assembly will assume jurisdiction and itself determine the Wightman-Bradbury contest. The joint committee was appointed only to cast up the returns and not to investigate the vote or Bradbury's allegations of fraud and illegal procedure in St. Louis. This throws the fight upon the floor of the joint house, and a decision must be reached today.

If Bradbury's demands for a hearing are approved, the next step will be to determine the jurisdiction of the legislature to make a contest, which may be done in several days. Attorney General Major, who has been asked for an opinion, will say that the legislature has jurisdiction. This must be determined by the supreme court, however, and a habeas corpus suit following the arrest of the St. Louis election board for contempt in refusing to turn over the ballots to the committee will probably be used.

Under the constitution the legislature cannot do any business until the election returns are cast up and the commissions of the men elected issued and signed.

Howard A. Gass, who is contesting the election of William P. Evans in the supreme court, says he will file his contest with the legislature as a precautionary measure. The Republican attorneys claim Gass' contest should not have been filed until April, and he wants to have a legislative contest possible if this is sustained.

SCHOOL PLANT VALUED AT $1,000,000

(Clarence A. Perry in the Survey.)

The school plant of America is valued at one billion dollars. It lies idle 61 per cent of the available time when it is used only for day school purposes. Assuming that the full use of this property is worth to the community 5 per cent upon the investment, its employment for day instruction only would involve an annual waste in the United States of thirty and a half million dollars.

As was said recently, "Most of us no more appreciate what it means to have these possessions than the people of Europe, before 1492, appreciated what it meant to have the earth. There was a whole hemisphere of incalculable wealth and opportunity about which they knew nothing. And in the school plant there is a whole hemisphere of value unrealized, undiscovered by those who think of it as simply a building for the education of children, with the added use of an occasional evening school."

The school building should be the capital of the neighborhood, the focal point of educational, recreational, political and social life. Its importance as a place for the development of intelligent public spirit through the free discussion of public questions is fundamental for "those who are opening our schoolhouses for the largest public service are simply carrying on the traditions of freedom." The primitive gatherings of free men in ancient Greece and Rome and Palestine, the folkmote of Northern Europe, the New England town meeting, which often took place in the little red school house, are the precursors of the larger use of the school house, which, instead of being a novelty, is "the twentieth century revival and expression of the democratic spirit which has been vital at intervals, for more than two thousand years."

Back in the '80s it was customary to turn the school house over to the janitor at 4 o'clock for sweeping. An hour later he locked the doors and the building was not used by anybody during the rest of the day. When he got through on Friday afternoon the school premises were closed until the following Monday morning. On Saturday and Sunday the school grounds were shunned as forbidden territory. During the long summer months no one entered them, except possibly the workmen who went there to make repairs. The whole school property was used from 9 to 4 during 180 days out of the year—about 39 per cent of the total usable period. But within a couple of decades a vast movement has been started for a wider use of the school plant. Many communities are now receiving much large dividends upon their school investments.

Many activities are now carried on in school houses after day hours. Evening and vacation schools; playgrounds in school yards during July and August; evening recreation and social centers during the winter months; free lectures, entertainments, indoor sports, folk dances, civic and educational meetings in school assembly rooms and gymnasiums—these are the chief ways in which the taxpayers are now getting more service from school property.

Evening schools are now maintained in over a third of the cities having more than 8,000 inhabitants. In 1908-9 the enrollment in the night classes increased nearly 6 per cent over that of the previous year—tenfold the per cent of increase in the day school enrollment during the same period. The growth of after-school activities is more noticeable, however, in the cities of 30,000 and over. Practically all of these support night schools, two-thirds of them have school house lectures and entertainments; one-half have summer play grounds, one-third whole vacation schools. In New York, Chicago, Rochester, Newark and Milwaukee the school boards themselves are maintained recreation or social centers during the winter evenings while in a dozen other places similar work is being carried on by play ground associations and other voluntary organizations.

In Rochester, where every other school house has become a neighborhood social center, an extensive use of class rooms is being made by men's civic clubs for non-partisan discussions of political questions. "The school houses are the places for political meetings," said a county committeeman in a Rochester social center. "I do not mean that they should be opened to any one political party, but to all. Why should I be compelled to go to a barroom to address a po-

NO WORD RECEIVED

CAPTAIN M'MILLAN HAD NOT HEARD MONDAY.

MAY COME THIS EVENING

It is Thought That the Body of Mrs. Patterson Will Arrive Here at That Time.

Captain I. V. McMillan had received no word up to 3 o'clock Monday afternoon as to what time Mrs. McMillan and her son-in-law, W. R. Patterson, would arrive in Maryville with the body of Mrs. Patterson, who died Saturday morning at her home in Atlanta, Ga.

It is thought that they will arrive in Maryville Monday night or Tuesday morning by the way of St. Louis, where they will be joined by Mrs. McMillan's son, Ross H. McMillan, and his wife.

In the newspaper account which is published below of the last day of Mrs. Patterson's life, mention is made of Rev. Frank Siler as one of the ministers who was with Mrs. Patterson on Thursday. Rev. Siler will be well remembered by many Maryville people, as he was for several years pastor of the M. E. church, South, of this city.

Mrs. Patterson was a member of the First M. E. church of Maryville, having been converted under the pastorate of Rev. E. B. Lytle. She was a member of the choir and frequently sang solos at the church services.

Concerning the condition of Mrs. W. R. Patterson, the Atlanta Constitution of Friday, the day before her death, said:

Mrs. W. R. Patterson, who shot herself at her home, 141 Capitol avenue, Tuesday morning at an early hour, is sinking rapidly at the Grady hospital, where she was hurried for treatment, and it was said she could not live through the night. Pneumonia has set in, complicating her condition, and no hopes are held out for her recovery.

Mrs. Patterson has been in ill health for some time, and when her husband, who is manager of the Smith Premier Typewriter company of this city, did not return from a western trip Sunday as he had telegraphed he would do, her fears were magnified to such an extent that she tried to kill herself. The pistol was placed against her heart, but did not inflict a fatal wound, and it was said that she would recover, if pneumonia did not follow.

Thursday Mrs. Patterson received two ministers of her faith, Dr. John White and Rev. Frank Siler, and her husband was with her all day.

Ten Dollar Candy Sale.

The domestic science class of the high school held a successful candy sale in the Bee Hive shoe store Saturday, from which they realized $10, which they think is due to the fine auctioneer they had, Colonel Frank Reavis.

Left for New Mexico.

J. B. Angell left Saturday evening for Roswell, N. M., to look at land in the Pecos valley. Mr. Angell is about to trade his large farm, near Hopkins, for land in New Mexico. If he is satisfied with the proposed deal, he and Mrs. Angell will soon locate there, also his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Boyer, who are living on the Hopkins farm.

To Attend Funeral of Brother-in-Law.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Gaugh and children left Monday evening for Kansas City to attend the funeral of their brother-in-law, J. H. Rawlins.

T. W. Porter and Newton Butts of Hopkins were city visitors Monday.

Mrs. E. M. Breckenridge and two children of Tingley, Ia., who have been visiting the families of G. W. Swinford and W. W. Glass, went to Barnard Saturday evening to visit Mrs. George Cole.

Will Jones, manager of the Bell Telephone company of Maryville, spent Sunday in St. Joseph.

Mrs. C. W. Reidlinger and daughter, Miss Margaret Reidlinger, of Clyde, were among the shoppers in Maryville Saturday.

Mrs. W. H. Ramey and little daughter, Ruth, were shopping in Maryville Saturday.

"MINUTE MEN" LIST AT FRANKLIN SCHOOL

Twenty pupils of the Franklin ward school were perfect in attendance during the past month. There were some good testy days for school attendance during the month just past, but the Franklin school maintained a brave "minute men" list, and is becoming famous for it:

CLUB MEETING TUESDAY EVENING

A meeting of the Commercial club will be held Tuesday night in the new club rooms over Alderman's store. It is the first meeting in the club's new quarters, and it is probable that a luncheon will be served at this time. Several things of importance will come up for discussion, and a full attendance of the members is desired.

COUNTY COURT ROOM TO BE REMODELED

The county court room in the court house is being repaired and repapered this week. A railing is to be built across the room and a number of other improvements to be made.

LOST HIS VOICE THE FIRST DAY

A letter received from Anderson Craig, representative to the legislature from Nodaway county, says that he lost his voice the first day he was in the house, "but," he adds, "I have fully recovered it, and am enjoying life fine here. Mrs. Craig and I are boarding with Superintendent Gass and find it is a delightful place."

Mrs. D. G. Nelson went to Savannah Saturday to visit Mrs. L. L. McKelvey.

PUT TO SLEEP BY PHONE.

The Great Mack Hypnotizes a Youth by Telephone.

"Sleepy, sleepy; you are getting so sleepy, so drowsy. Your eyelids are becoming heavy, heavier, heavier," murmured the great Mack over the telephone Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock.

At the end of the wire, in full view of a vast crowd of people, was a youth in neat night attire. He was partly reclining on a cot, in the front window of the Empire theater. In one hand he held a desk phone and to his left ear he held the receiver. The big crowd of spectators could not hear the telephonic commands traversing over the wires between him and Prof. Mack, but they saw the youth's eyelids flutter and dose and drop into a deep hynotic sleep, and saw a marvelous feat of hpnotizing a young man over the telephone, accomplished by the great Mack, a noted hypnotist, who, with his wife, the only successful lady hypnotist at present practicing on the American stage, will open a week's engagement at the Empire theater tonight, demonstrating hypnotism as it is known and recognized by the scientific world today.

During the entire production there is neither a suggestive word or vulgar situation, but a refined, instructive, marvelous, laughable and up-to-date program in every detail.

The young man will remain in this cataleptic sleep with animation almost suspended until Monday night at 8:30, when he will be awakened on the stage at the Empire theater in full view of the audience.

This sleep was introduced for scientific purposes, to demonstrate to the public the great power of suggestion.

The Macks are here to make good under all pretense, and guarantee to please or refund your money. All the neighboring managers of opera houses and newspapers unite in pronouncing the attraction the most realistic ever seen in this section. No two performances alike. Complete change of program each night this week.—Adv.

TO LEASE OLD PARK

BASEBALL DIRECTORS DECIDED ON LOCATIO FOR THIS YEAR.

R.G. KOCH WILL BE MGR

New Players Signed and Outlook for a Winning Team is Very Flattering.

A meeting of the baseball directors of the Maryville team was held Saturday evening in the office of the president, L. C. Cook. A number of matters were taken up.

It was decided to lease the old ball park for the coming season. Recently this tract of ground was sold by John Riffe to Warren Spoor of St. Joseph, and it was not known then whether it could be secured again as a ball park. The rent on the park will be $100 for the season, and the lease is only for this year.

R. G. Koch was selected as manager of the ball team. Mr. Koch will devote a good part of his time during the summer to looking after the welfare of the team, and this selection by the board is a good one. A number of new players are being signed up, and the outlook for a winning team is promising.

The meeting of the Mink league to be held in Shenandoah, Ia., on Friday, January 13, will probably be attended by all the directors of the Comets. This will be a very important meeting as the guarantee of $300 is to be paid at this time that each team in the league will finish the schedule. Maryville has her money already raised for this purpose.

Another matter that will be taken up at this meeting will be whether the league will be enlarged to an eight-team league. Atlantic, Ia., and Hiawatha, Kan., are seeking admission into the league, and it is thought probable that they will be taken in if they come through with the guarantee of $300.

Mrs. Frank Redfield and children, May, Robert and Donald, returned to their home in Sedalia Monday, after a week's visit with Mr. Redfield's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Redfield, and his sisters, Miss Irene Redfield and Mrs. Bert Harrison, and family.

Mrs. Anna Andrews left Monday morning for her home in Enid, Okla., after a few days' visit in Maryville with the family of E. L. Andrews. Mrs. Andrews will stop in St. Joseph for a brief visit.

John C. White and Lewis C. White shipped a car load of hogs to the St. Joseph market Monday.

O. R. Geyer, who has been spending his Christmas vacation in Maryville and also visiting his parents at Graham, left Monday afternoon for Tulsa, Okla., to resume his work as city editor of the Tulsa World.

Mr. and Mrs. Arch Frank and little daughter, Eva Margaret, and Mr. and Mrs. Beal Roseberry and little daughter, Esther, spent Sunday in Rosendale, at the home of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barnes.

To Wearers of Glasses

Every year or so you should have your eyes re-examined. For it is possible that the condition of your eyes has changed since you got your Glasses.

If so the lenses do not now quite suit you, and this should be attended to.

Once in two years at least the lenses should be changed—providing of course that an examination shows the necessity.

Come in some day and we will find this out for you.

He Consulted Bacon.

It was Andrew Jackson's habit to carry in his saddlebags when he attended court a copy of "Bacon's Abridgment" and to make frequent appeals to it in his cases. This precious book was always carefully done up in coarse brown paper, and the unwrapping of the volume was a very solemn function as performed by Jackson, who was then only twenty-one years old. Colonel Avery during the trial which preceded the duel between himself and Jackson procured a piece of bacon the size of the book, and while Jackson was addressing the court he slipped out the volume from its wrapping and substituted the bit of pork. At length Jackson had occasion to appeal to Lord Bacon. While still talking he raised the bearskin flap of his saddlebags, drew out the brown paper package, carefully untied the string, unfolded the paper with decorous gravity and then, without looking at what he held in his hand, exclaimed triumphantly, "We will now see what Bacon says!" What wonder that the very young lawyer blazed with anger, while the courtroom rang with laughter at his expense, and that he afterward challenged Colonel Avery.

Modified the Order.

When the Infanta Eulalia and her consort, Antonio, were in New York in 1893 the Circulo Colon-Cervantes gave a grand ball in honor of the distinguished visitors. On the day before the entertainment took place a notice was posted at the Spanish club, giving directions as to how the men who were to attend the affair should dress. Those who went to Madison Square Garden early in the evening of May 26 saw a placard in the main entrance on which was written:

"Dress orders revoked. Men wearing high shoes will be admitted if shirts can pass muster, but woolen mitts and linen dusters will be excluded."

The notice created much merriment before it was removed. Its authorship was credited to Tom Ochiltree.

Hard to Please.

Nobody outside the journalistic profession has any idea how difficult it is for an editor to please some of his patrons. For instance, referring to a man's reputation for carelessness in the matter of his toilet, a paper announced, "Mr. Smudge will wash himself before he assumes the office of town clerk." This made Smudge furious, and he demanded a retraction, which appeared thus: "Mr. Smudge requests us to deny that he will wash himself before he assumes the office of town clerk." Oddly enough, this only enraged Smudge the more.

litical meeting, where the bartender is using me to advertise his beer? Why should I be compelled to go into smoke filled rooms to talk on political issues when we have buildings like this, where those things can be taken up? How easily the ordinary public school plant becomes the focusing point for the social activities of the neighborhood is illustrated by the Rochester public school No. 9. Besides being a day, evening and vacation school, and serving as a public club house for men, women, boys and girls, the building is used as a moving picture theater, a lecture hall, a gymnasium, a bath house, a dance hall, a library and a play ground house. A free dental clinic is to be established in it, and it has already become a public health office. Its yard is used as a play ground, an athletic field and a school garden; with a little more ground for a park the whole plant would come close to a realization of the ideal social center. Is there any other American institution that so naturally attracts to itself all the varied interests of the community?

The movement for the wider use has reached national proportions. The University of Wisconsin has engaged Edward J. Ward, the man who organized and for three years ran the Rochester social centers, to assist the cities and towns of Wisconsin to start similar social work. The commissioner of education will add an expert on school extension to the staff of the national bureau when congress gives him the increased appropriation which he has asked for and the cabinet has O. K.'d. The 1911 year book of the National Society for Study of Education will be devoted to the topic "The City School as a Community Center." The women's clubs in many places are agitating the subject of winter evening play centers as the natural complement to the summer play grounds. In Lexington, Ky., the women's civic club filled whole pages of the local newspapers with information about the social benefits obtainable through the wider use as an argument for a new model school building, in an energetic campaign to raise the needed funds which was brought to a successful termination.

Miss Pauline Parr left Sunday morning for her home in Hamilton, where she was called by the serious illness of her sister, Miss Julia Parr.

HIS GOOD DEED.

It Was Well Done, but It Was Tagged With a Return Ticket.

"My father," said the man with the side whiskers, "was a lawyer. One of his clients was a bothersome old lady who used to wear his life out. She would pay him interminable visits at his office and at our home, talking him almost to death about nothing every time she came, and when she was out of town her letters to him were worse than her visits.

"Once when father was confined to his room by a very bad attack of the gout and consequently was not in the best of humor he received a very long telegram from the old lady containing a lot of words about nothing. This of itself did not tend to increase father's good humor, but when he discovered that the old lady had sent it to him collect, $4.60—well, to say that he was angry but faintly expresses his condition of mind. Father at once called for writing materials and a supply of telegraph blanks and for the next hour devoted himself, in spite of the gout, to writing a reply to his client's telegram. Just as he finished mother entered the room. Father told her of the collect telegram he had received and, showing her the reply, said: 'This telegram is as long as I can possibly make it. I am going to send it collect. It will cost her somewhere between $20 and $25, but it will teach her a lesson which she needs badly.'

"Mother had hard to persuade him not to send it, but father was adamant. He sent for Jim, my elder brother, a boy of about fourteen, and gave him the telegram, with directions to send it at once at day rates. At the same time he gave Jim a check on his bank to get cashed. When Jim went off with the telegram and the check, father, soothed by the knowledge of a 'good deed well done,' settled down to enjoy his morning paper in as much comfort as the gout would permit. In about two hours Jim returned and, going to father's room, handed him the money for the check. Father took the money and counted it, and then he counted it again.

"'What does this mean, Jim?' he asked. "I gave you a check for $50, but you've brought me back only $26.'

"'Oh, that's all right, father,' replied Jim reassuringly; 'the telegram you gave me to send cost $24.'

"Father's gout took a turn for the worse, and he was in bed for a week."—Baltimore American.

Doing Nicely.

One of the good fellows of Broadway is a really good fellow, except that he sometimes inclines an ear to the tempting of the demon rum, says the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star. When that happens his wife sends out a hurry call for him, claps him in a Turkish bath and takes the stewed remains home a day or so later full of remorse and echoes. The other night he failed to appear at the domestic hearth at his usual hour. Some time later his wife began making queries by telephone. Eventually she got on the wire of a friend of the periodical souse.

"Have you seen Harry lately?" she asked.

The friend assured her that he had just parted from her spouse. Yes, Harry had been drinking a little. The friend very reluctantly admitted it.

"Is Harry drunk?" asked the wife.

"Oh, no, ma'am," said the friend in tones of horror. "Oh, no, not at all. By no means. When I left him he was able to get along very nicely—on his hands and knees."

They Played Corks.

"I walked into a western bar," said a New York gambler, "and the proprietor greeted me with, 'Did you ever play the game of corks?'

"'Trot it out,' I said, and he brought out a bunch of corks and set them in front of the longest line of guests you ever saw in your life. 'Now,' says he, 'the last man to pick up his cork after I say go is stuck. Go!' he hollered, and I dug my fingers into the bar in my hurry. I was the first to pick up my cork, all right, but I was the last too. The rest just stood around and laughed. The round for that bunch of pirates cost me exactly $12.50."

The Bishop and the Senator.

A visiting bishop in Washington was arguing with a senator on the desirability of attending church. At last he put the question squarely, "What is your personal reason for not attending?"

The senator smiled in a no-offense-intended way as he replied, "The fact is one finds so many hypocrites there."

Returning the smile, the bishop said: "Don't let that keep you away, senator. There's always room for one more."

The Three Great Channels.

Every human being—man, woman and child, hero and convict, neurasthenic and deep sea fisherman, athlete and invalid—needs the blessing of God through three, and only three, great channels — responsibility, recreation and affection; work, play and love. With these any life is happy in spite of sorrow and pain, successful despite the bitterest failures. Without them a man breaks his heart, severs his conscious connection with God. If you want to keep a headstrong, fatuous youth from overreaching himself you try to give him responsibility, recreation and affection. If you want to put courage and aspiration into the gelatinous character of a street walker or the flickering mentality of a hysteric you labor to furnish just the same trio —work, recreation and affection. In every case the healing power which you want to give is real life, and real life means just these three things. The same needs are fixed for all of us and the same all sufficing bounty in the supply if we can get and keep in touch with it.—Atlantic.

Mice For Whooping Cough.

A fairly alarming relic of medieval nostrums came to my notice recently. A mother was discussing with her housekeeper the probability of her children taking whooping cough, which was then prevalent in the community. The housekeeper, a most dependable, valuable helper, of more than average good sense and judgment, said: "Mrs. Black, if you'll let me I can keep your children from having whooping cough. I've kept lots of children from having it, but I wouldn't do it without telling you first."

"Well, Martha, what is it?"

"You catch a live mouse and kill and dress it and stuff it and bake it and feed it to the children. It isn't bad to take, and of course they don't know what it is. That would spoil the charm."

To my friend's exclamation of horror she replied with conviction, "I've given it to lots of children, and never one of them had whooping cough."—Mary Newell Youtz in Designer.

When Wagner Died.

"Nearly all the visitors to Venice, says a letter from that city, "go to the Vendramin palace to see the place where Wagner lived nearly a year and where he died in February, 1883. We who were here on that glorious spring day when they bore the master away, who remember the long line of mourning barges, wish that the palace could have among other mementos a picture of that occasion. The great state barge contained Anton Seidl's orchestra, and after it came barges with singers, nobles, great men and women, all in deepest mourning. This is the scene which some artist should fix on canvas. But, alas, he who saw it could never know what it represented unless he had been here at the time. The music, under Seidl and Neumann, and its effect on the mourning throng no brush could portray."

Last Revolutionary Survivor.

The last survivor of the Revolutionary war was John Gray, who died in Noble county, O., aged 104 years, on March 26, 1868. He came to the Buckeye State early in its existence. For some years before he died he drew an annual pension of $500 from the government, General John A. Bingham having got a special act through congress for this. Gray's father was killed at the battle of Stillwater and he took his place in the army, being only sixteen years old then. He served through the remainder of the war. His military record is on file at the office of the state commissioner of soldiers' claims.—Columbus Dispatch.

The Bull of Perillus.

Perillus of Athens is said to have invented for Phalaris, tyrant of Agrigentum, 570 B. C., a brazen bull which opened on the side to admit victims who were to be roasted by the fire which was built underneath. The dying groans of the sufferers resembled closely the roaring of a mad bull. Phalaris greatly admired the invention and by way of test roasted the inventor first. Later the populace rose in rebellion and burned Phalaris.

Progress.

"I notice a lady has received by wireless a prescription from her doctor at sea."

"What was it?"

"Told her to brace up and she would be O. K."

"Well, well. Here's a case of drugless treatment by wireless prescription for a sickless illness. What an age we live in!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

FASCINATING FURS.

Wear the Scarf if You'd Be Up to Date.

IN PERSIAN PAW AND PASSEMENTERIE.

Fur scarfs have come in fashion strongly as the winter weather advances. They are much like those that prevailed during the summer—those graceful accessories that Europe was quite mad over in the spring and which we began to wear in September. Our summer days demand mosquito netting for drapery rather than lined satin scarfs.

The satin ones are still worn, but not in their original state. There is a band of fur around the edge, and there is a warm lamb's wool interlining. Some are in the original length; others are finished just below the bust with weighted silk tassels that keep the ends down.

The latter are lined with cerise, with apple green, with copper. They fit the shoulder tightly and hold the top of the arms down to the body. The fur at the edge is about two inches wide and as often brown as black. When this quaint little accessory is worn at the same time that a huge pillow muff is carried and to these are added the new scoop bonnet with its panache of plumes, a la directoire, then indeed does the modern girl look old fashioned. Didn't the heroines of Jane Austen and the Bronte sisters wear such gewgaws? The scarf that is really comfortable these cold days is of fur and velvet. It keeps one almost as warm as a fur coat and is infinitely less heavy. The latter loses half its value by the striking disadvantage of weight. It tires out the muscles of neck and back to such a degree that one looks askance at wearing it every day. Again, it is too warm a garment to be worn often or long. It can be tolerated only at intervals.

The fur scarf is not heavy to carry, and its warmth can be adjusted to the most vital part of the back or chest. It is as thick and as warm as one wishes to make it.

The charming fur scarf seen in the picture is of Persian paw, with deep fringe and bands of handsome black passementerie decorating the graceful long length of pelt.

To Clean Embroidery.

Dip a camel's hair brush in spirits of wine and brush all over the embroidery until it is quite clean. The brush should be frequently rinsed in some spare spirits in another glass to remove the dirt.

The embroidery need not be taken off the garment or piece.

Here's a Pretty Blouse.

Blouses of cream etamine are very smart for wear with tailored suits. The attractive model pictured is of this material worked in Russian design, the colorings being dark blue and greens.

OF CREAM ETAMINE WITH RUSSIAN EMBROIDERY.

Russian insertion forms the trimming for the collar and cuffs, and the kimono sleeves have tucks in rows of two running from the neck to the cuffs, little motifs being embroidered in the spaces between the tucks.

FORGOT THE KEY.

Then the Locksmith Showed Him How to Open the Door.

When Mr. and Mrs. Eastend started out to spend the evening in pursuance of an engagement they paused on the front steps long enough for Mrs. E. to propound the usual query, "Have you got the key, dear?"

"Yes, I guess so," said Mr. E. "Wait a minute. No, I haven't, either. What do you think of that? Must have left it on the dresser."

"Well, here's a pretty how-de-do!" exclaimed Mrs. E. as her consort savagely but fruitlessly rummaged his pockets. "How are we going to get in to get it?"

Hubby first tried the lower windows, to find them all carefully locked. Neighbors awoke to the situation and began to be helpful.

"Get a ladder," said one.

"Get a jimmy," said another.

"Get an aeroplane," said a third.

Various other expedients, ranging from derricks to dynamite, were suggested. Finally one neighbor brought a ladder which wouldn't reach the second story windows by six feet. It was suggested that the fire department be summoned. Rejected.

By this time the engagement had to be called off, and the remarks Mrs. E. was making to the female contingent of the assemblage will not here be recorded. As a last resort a locksmith was suggested, and Mr. E. departed in search of one. At the end of an hour he returned with a stolid looking German bearing an armful of tools.

"Vich toor?" he inquired.

"This one," said Mrs. E., "and for goodness' sake don't jimmy it nor dynamite it unless you have to!"

"Dot's all righd," grunted the workman. Then he extended his hand and tried the knob. It turned. The catch had not caught. The door swung open. He turned and gave the assemblage an expressive glance.

And now when Mr. and Mrs. E. leave their little home of an evening some neighbor is sure to stick his head out of a window and kindly inquire, "Have you got the key?"—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

BLIND TO GOOD LUCK.

Fable of the Weary Farmer and the Golden Plow.

There was once a Benevolent Fairy who was accustomed to doing Good Deeds in Whimsical Ways. One day she was flying across the country to attend a meeting of the A. O. B. F. when she noticed a Farmer laboring in the Fields. His horse was Attenuated and Decepit, and his plow was Heavy and Old Fashioned. Often he would pause and wipe the sweat from his brow. Plainly he was having a Hard Time.

The Benevolent Fairy watched him a moment and observed his Haggard Look and his general air of Misery. Suddenly an Idea came to her—to make this man Rich, so that he would no longer have to delve and struggle to eke out a Bare Living. So she swooped down and touched the plow with her wand—she was, of course, invisible—and instantly it was changed to Solid Gold. Then with an amused but kindly backward glance the Benevolent Fairy went on her way.

A year later, remembering the occurrence, she flew over to see how the Farmer was enjoying his Good Fortune. She found him in the Fields, plowing laboriously, and if anything he and his surroundings looked Meaner and More Miserable than they had before. Much surprised, the Fairy flew closer, just in time to hear him murmur:

"I wish this ding-busted plow warn't so heavy!"

The Benevolent Fairy eyed him Pityingly; then she once more touched the plow with her wand, and it again became a thing of wood and iron. Then she flew away, and the Farmer resumed his Toil.

After all, are there not some folk who would die of thirst adrift on a river?—Clifton B. Dowd in Lippincott's.

A Duel In Undress.

Dueling, though not dead, was dying out even in Rogers' time and was not taken very seriously. The poet's biographer tells the quaint story of how Mr. Humphrey Howarth, a surgeon, when called out made his appearance in the field stark naked. The astonished challenger asked him what he meant. "I know," said Howarth, "that if any part of the clothing is carried into the body by a gunshot wound festering ensues, and therefore I have met you thus." His antagonist declared that fighting a man in puris naturalibus would be quite ridiculous, and accordingly they parted without further discussion.

Definite.

"Madam"—a census taker was speaking to her who answered his knock—"how many children over six and under twenty-one years of age have you?"

"Lemme see," she reflected; "lemme see. Waal, sir, thar be two over six an' two under twenty-one."—Everybody's.

Prepositions.

A correspondent of the New York Sun says he overheard the following: "The boys came out from over in between those houses." Here are five prepositions in a bunch. Can this "record" be broken?

Your Occupation.

Every occupation lifts itself with the enlarging life of him who practices it. The occupation that will not do that no man really has a right to occupy himself about.—Phillips Brooks

Cookery Points

No more delicious form of "candy" can be made than chocolate nuts, for which any kind of nut kernels can be used, almonds, walnuts and Brazil nuts being especially favored. To prepare take half a pound of slightly sweetened chocolate, break it into small pieces and place these in the upper part of a milk saucepan, one with the double pan, the lower part of which should be filled with very warm—not too hot—water. Stir the chocolate occasionally and when quite melted set it to cool. When rather less than lukewarm drop in the blanched kernels one by one and side by side. With a narrow, close pronged wire fork push them well under. Have ready a piece of waxed or confectioner's paper and, having lifted out the dipped nuts, let them drain a second to get rid of drops of the chocolate, place them carefully side by side on the paper, continue the process till all the nuts are dipped and place them to set in a cool, dry place. Figs, dates, pines and candied fruits can be treated in the same way.

Cranberry Mold.

This should be prepared the day ahead, so that the berries may be properly molded. Look over two quarts of the berries, wash, clean and put up in a granite kettle with two cups of boiling water. Cook twenty minutes, shaking the kettle often so they will not stick. Add four ounces of sugar and cook ten minutes longer, watching constantly, as they are apt to burn after the sugar has been added. Rinse out two jelly molds or bowls with cold water and turn the berries into them. Set where they will get cold. When ready to turn out dip the mold for an instant in hot water, then turn out on plates or a low dish, one for each end of the table. If these directions have been followed they will be in perfect form.

Walnut Cake.

Six ounces of breadcrumbs soaked in a little rum, six eggs, six ounces of shelled walnut, ten ounces of granulated sugar, ten ounces of confectioner's sugar and six drops of hot water. Beat the yolks and granulated sugar together, add the walnuts (pounded), the soaked breadcrumbs and the white of the eggs stiffly beaten. Turn into a well greased cake tin and bake for three-quarters of an hour in a moderate oven. When cold ice as follows: Have some hot water in a large bowl, place a small basin containing the confectioner's sugar in this, add the hot water, stir quickly and spread over the cake at once, decorating with pieces of walnut.

Good Tea Cakes.

Put into the mixing bowl two cupfuls sugar, one cupful molasses, one cupful softened lard or butter, or half and half; two well beaten eggs, two level teaspoonfuls soda dissolved in a cupful of warm water, two teaspoonfuls cinnamon, one teaspoonful cloves, six cupfuls flour and one cupful fruit, English currants, seeded raisins, chopped prunes or nut meats. Mix soft and after rolling out like thick cooky dough cut into shapes and bake in a moderate, steady oven.

Broiled Oysters.

Look over the oysters, rejecting bits of shell; dry between towels; dip in melted butter or olive oil seasoned with salt and pepper; heat the oyster broiler, wipe over with butter; lay on the oysters and broil over a clear fire—charcoal is best—for four or five minutes, turning often; serve on rounds of toasted bread spread with butter and slightly moistened with oyster liquor; garnish with sprigs of parsley and lemon. Delicious served with pickled peaches.

A Good Family Cake.

Take half a pound of good beef dripping, one pound and a half of flour, two teaspoonfuls of carbonate of soda, half a pound of sugar, one ounce of carraway seeds, one pint of milk and two ounces of chopped peel.

Rub the dripping into the flour and add the sugar, carraway seeds and peel. Dissolve the soda in the milk and mix into the dry ingredients. Beat well and bake in a moderate oven for an hour and a half.

Codfish Fritters.

Take one pound salt codfish; soak in water; when fresh enough boil and drain; pick out the bones and pound fish fine in a mortar; to this add chopped parsley, pepper and tablespoon butter; take five onions, chop fine and fry them in butter; scald and peel one tomato; simmer it with the onions; mix this thoroughly with the fish; add three eggs well beaten; fry in small fritters a light brown color.

Men Like Simplicity of Fare.

How many well meaning housewives make the mistake in their overzealous hospitality to furnish men guests with elaborate dishes when simple, well prepared foods would please the men so much more! Any hostess who will bear this fact in mind will not only save trouble, expense and time, but will also please her masculine guests to a greater extent.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets

City Taxes

The City Council at their meeting, Jan. 5, instructed the Collector to collect all unpaid taxes. We hope those who have not already paid, will call and get their receipts. If suit has to be brought, that would add a heavy expense to the penalty already accrued.

NO MORE CATARRH.

The Orear-Henry Drug Co. Has a Guaranteed Cure That Has Stood the Test of Time.

Catarrh cures come and catarrh cures go, but Hyomei continues to cure catarrh and abolish its disgusting symptoms wherever civilization exists.

Every year the already enormous sales of this really scientific cure for catarrh grow greater, and the present year will show all records broken.

If you buy a Hyomei outfit for $1.00 and hide it in a dark cupboard it won't cure your catarrh.

If you breathe it daily as directed it will cure your catarrh or it won't cost you a cent. Ask the Orear-Henry Drug company.

If you have a hard rubber Hyomei inhaler somewhere around the house, get it out and start at once to forever rid yourself of catarrh.

The Orear-Henry Drug Co. will sell you a bottle of Hyomei (liquid) for only 50 cents; start to breathe it and notice how quickly it clears out the air passages and makes the entire head feel fine.

Hyomei used regularly will cure catarrh, coughs, colds, bronchitis or sore throat. A complete outfit including a hard rubber pocket inhaler costs $1.00. No stomach dosing. Just breathe it. It kills the germs, soothes and heals the inflamed membrane.

Father's Game.

Ted was trying to keep quiet so father could read, but at last sighed so deeply that his father laid down his magazine.

"I'll give you something to do," he said cheerily. "Bring me that small mirror from mother's table."

Ted flew to the other room, and when he had the mirror he drew his chair up close to his father.

"Now take a piece of white paper, Ted," said his father, "and a pencil, as if you were going to write. Now I will hold this mirror on its side at a right angle with the paper. Can you see your hand?"

"Just as plainly——"

"Well, I don't want you to," was the reply, and his father bent the mirror forward. "Now can you?"

"Only the pencil."

"Good. Now draw a square and cross it from corner to corner and draw curves round each side."

Ted began to draw, but his pencil went in every direction but the right one. His father kept the mirror tipped so that only the point of the pencil showed, and he told Ted to keep his eyes on the reflection without looking at his hand. He even placed a card between his hand and the mirror, covering all but the point of his pencil.

Ted found it impossible to draw the square; and when he asked his father to draw it he laughed to find that he had the same trouble. Trying this occupied Ted's time until his hour for bed.—Youth's Companion.

ENGLAND AGAIN ALARMS WORLD

New Thirteen Inch Gun Stops All Naval Construction.

ALTERS ARMAMENT PLANS.

Germany Suspends Preparations For Four More Dreadnoughts Until Larger Bores Can Be Arranged. Great Britain Far Ahead In Strength For Much Feared "Crisis."

Just as England created worldwide surprise in 1905 by laying down a Dreadnought embodying all the big gun principles and caused practically all the naval shipyards in the world to stand idle while their plans were amended, so now again the British naval constructors get ahead of their rivals with the new thirteen inch gun which is being amended in the newest Dreadnoughts.

This gun throws a 1,250 pound shell, whereas the twelve inch weapon with which original Dreadnoughts were armed takes only an 850 pound shell.

Naval Outlook Is Changed.

The whole naval outlook may be changed by the secrecy which the British admiralty has preserved regarding the new weapons. It was not until recently that it became known the admiralty had placed orders for a number of thirteen inch guns and mountings for all the new vessels of the Dreadnought type under construction.

This development had surprising results in Germany. As soon as news of the change in the British policy was received there the preparations for the construction of four Dreadnoughts which were to carry twelve inch guns were suspended with a view to reconsideration of their armament. Consequently the relative naval strength of Great Britain and Germany was seriously affected.

Today England possesses ten Dreadnoughts completed and will have twelve by April, 1911, when Germany will have five in commission. Mr. Asquith's computation that April, 1913, would see Great Britain with twenty-five and Germany with twenty-one Dreadnoughts will not turn out correct.

Critical Period Postponed.

This critical period of which so much dread has been expressed in England cannot be in 1913. By accelerating work Germany may complete twenty-one Dreadnoughts by April, 1914, at which date the British fleet will possess twenty-five vessels plus those in next year's naval program.

The London Telegraph's naval correspondent remarks:

"We have the benefit of a temporary lull, but it is only temporary. The crisis is postponed, but the crisis will come."

TO FLY ACROSS THE SAHARA

Aeroplane Mail Service Over Desert to Be Tried.

The French war department is about to put the aeroplane to the severest test yet asked of it and has decided that the Sahara desert shall be crossed as soon as possible from north to south, from Colomb-Bechar, at the mouth of Oran, to Timbuktu, by military aeroplanes. The matter has been under the consideration of the intelligence staff for some time.

The total distance is approximately 1,000 miles, and at present dispatches take four months crossing from Colomb-Bechar to Timbuktu. An aeroplane service, effectually arranged would reduce this time to less than a day.

With the object of testing the feasibility of such a service General Brun has given orders for the initial part of the program to be begun. A military aviation center will be established on the northern limits of the Sahara, in southern Algeria, and there a number of officers who have knowledge of the desert will be trained to pilot flying machines.

When a sufficient number of pilots have received their certificates two groups will be formed, one of them being dispatched to Timbuktu. The operations will then begin on both sides of the desert.

AEROPLANE TOO SLOW.

Couldn't Beat Motorcycle In Ten Mile Race.

Two modern inventions, motorcycle and aeroplane, recently met in a speed contest in England, and the motorcycle proved the winner.

The airship, a biplane, was piloted by Blondeau, while McNab ran the motorcycle. They raced around a two mile track for a distance of ten miles.

Blondeau in the aeroplane didn't have a chance against the motorcycle, which traveled at the rate of between sixty and seventy miles an hour, while the biplane could not go faster than forty-five miles.
